

ZOOM WITH A VIEW VIRTUAL TEAM TALK

Chester Missing, a double EMMY nominated puppet, is gate crashing virtual meetings to answer the big questions:

- How do we work as a team, while apart?
- How do we build rapport without the human interaction?
- What do I do if there's a disconnect?
- How do you create shared culture when you're never in the same room?
- What about Zoom fatigue from too many online meetings?
- How do we deal with the stress of home being a workplace?
- Am I on mute?

Chester, who is famous in South Africa for asking leaders the tough questions on TV, will both interact humorously with your team, and, with his ventriloquist Conrad Koch, teach them how to build a great corporate culture, virtually. Luckily Conrad, as well as being a world-class comedian, also has a master's degree in corporate anthropology, so this funny, uplifting talk delivers some hard-hitting facts about building trust, taking leadership, checking in on team members who are struggling, and maintaining a client-centric workspace that exists entirely digitally.

Zoom with a View uses state of the art streaming software that provides multiple camera angles, and audio and visual effects to create a truly fun, educational and inspirational online experience. They will need to take a briefing about your team, who will be there and what they are facing to tailor the intervention to your specific team's needs.
